"AT HOME" AT THE CATHOLIC UNION.

As was anticipated, yesterday being the feast of the Sacred Heart of Jesus, the members of the Catholic Union entertained their friends at an "At Home." There was a reception in the hall of the Sacred Heart where over two hundred members and friends were present, amongst them being His Lordship Bishop Pozzani, the Very Rev. Fr. Noval, Procurator of the Spanish Mission and numerous priests of various Congregations, the Rev. Bro. Stephens, representing the Director of St. Joseph's College and other Brothers, Commandador Loria and other friends of the Club.

His Lordship the Bishop entered the hall about 8.30 p.m. and the worthy Vice-President of the Club, Mr. J. M. Alves, in welcoming the guests made a very eloquent speech in which he advocated the necessity of union amongst the members, and greeted with joy the marked increase of devotion to the Sacred Heart of Jesus, the patron of the Institution.

His Lordship the Bishop was received with applause and spoke like a father to his sons, congratulating the members of the Catholic Union for their devotedness and enthusiasm in carrying out the League of Sacred Heart in a manner worthy of its name.

Then Mr. Montalvo de Jesus spoke very eloquently on points relating to the unity of the community and of the necessity to look forward for the welfare of everyone in their future career. The speech was enthusiastically applauded. After light refreshments the party adjourned to the entrance hall where an impromptu concert was held which was attended with great success.

The orchestra, under the baton of Professor Gonzalez, culminated the proceedings with their excellent repertoire. The following are the principal items of the concert:—
March, "Sounds of Peace," Societade Philharmonica; opening chorus, "Over the hills at break of day," St. Joseph's College choir, assisted by Messrs M. H. Baptista, A. A. Alves, A. F. Omond, C. H. Omond and G. V. Omond; sentimental song, "The last watch," A. A. Alves; duet, "The Battle Eve," Messrs A. F. Omond and M. H. Baptista; comic song, "He is a second cousin of mine," L. G. Aguiar, followed by a step dance, song, "Only a man," C. M. S. Alves; sentimental song, "Bodouin's Love Song," F. B. de Silva; selection, "Dorothy," Societade Philharmonica; interval, presentation of prizes in the billiard championship; ballet, "A Cory Flat," J. F. Tavares; comic song, "Teasing," Fred. Leitao; encored, he gave "If a man in the moon were a coon," monologue, "Irishman spinning yarns," C. M. L. V. Ribeiro; valse lente, "Amorous," Societade Philharmonica; Portuguese National Anthem, "God Save the King," Accompagnists, Messrs O. Baptista and J. C. Rosario.
The band of the Societade Philharmonica was conducted by Mr. F. Gonzalez.

The committee of the Catholic Union are to be congratulated for their lavish hospitality towards their guests and for the excellent success achieved in last night's entertainment. Notwithstanding the heat the club was well attended, and the party dispersed amidst cheers for the Catholic Union.

The Catholic Union is an Institution in which the youths of the Portuguese community receive their moral and social training, and is gaining ground as to its reputation for the great good they have done and are still doing for the encouragement of education and of benefiting the poor.

HONGKONG, SATURDAY, JUNE 19, 1909.

IS THE EAST INDEBTED TO THE WEST?

THE Hon. HUGH CLIFFORD, so well known for his writings on Malaya and its people, who is administering the government of the Colony of Ceylon during the absence on leave of the Governor, Sir HENRY MACCULLUM, recently delivered a lecture in Colombo in which he vigorously combatted the theory held by so many Orientals that the East has suffered more than it has benefited by contact with Western civilization. After the retreat of the Macedonian Phalanx from northern India and the death of ALEXANDER the Great, the intercourse of Asia with Europe entirely ceased; it was as if a barrier had arisen between them, a barrier which became greatly extended and strengthened in the early centuries of the Christian era by the rise of Mohammedanism. For eight hundred years after the appearance of MAHOMMED the two distinct types of civilizations were completely sundered, each developing on its own lines quite independently of the other. Then Prince HENRY the Navigator started the Portuguese on their voyages and Vasco de GAMA penetrated behind the veil and rediscovered the East. Europe by this time was literally starving for the trade of Asia, and very quickly upon the heels of the gentlemen adventurers rose the great trading companies of England, France, and Holland which were to play such important roles in the subsequent centuries. Though Europe was so anxious to trade with the Orient it is still an open question whether the Orient ever wished to reciprocate. Perhaps it is a fair inference to suggest that it did not at first care one way or the other. The East was in no way indebted to the West; it was self-sufficient, self-supporting, self-sustaining, and self-contained.

THE CHINA MAIL

wonderful that when the two opposing civilizations came in contact with one another after a severance of well-nigh a thousand years there should be something like a clash? The individualistic and very material West sneered at the communistic and ideal East; the East returned the compliment by cordially despising the West. The European and Oriental alike were the result of their environment. The inhabitant of the temperate zone had to live in spite of nature. The inhabitant of the tropical zone had to live by the help of nature, and this led to the formation of diverse characteristics and also to the conception of mutually-opposed ideals. When Europe met Asia there was, as could only have been reasonably expected, a collision not of interests alone but of character, because unquestionably the East, unintruded upon by Europe, would have been able to continue her long history very much on the lines which can be traced from the beginning of which we have any record.

Now what was the effect of this collision? Mr. HUGH CLIFFORD believes, and we are with him on the point, that it may be stated as an axiom that in the beginning the effect upon Asia was wholly bad. As he explains, all the Asiatic kingdoms were very shortly placed on the defensive, and when a kingdom or individual was placed on the defensive, they had very little time or inclination for diverting their attention to more beautiful subjects than that of self-defence. "We knew, for instance, from the record of medieval travellers, that hospitality and religious toleration were among the most prominent virtues of the Chinese before the coming of the Portuguese to the East. To-day China, more than any other country, was a by-word for want of hospitality to the foreigner and for her hatred of the professors of any religion other than her own." Mr. CLIFFORD traced that absolute change in character almost wholly to the misbehaviour of the earlier adventurers who penetrated to China after VASCO DE GAMA made his way round the Cape.

Many Asiatic scholars during the past half century have gone to great trouble to prove that European influence has had a sterilizing influence upon purely Asiatic art. The explanation of this is to be found in the conditions under which Europe broke into the purely meditative life of Asia. As Mr. CLIFFORD points out, the fact is that "the intellect of the European—more especially of the man of action who formed, during the early years of the intercourse between Europe and Asia, the bulk of the European population that poured into the East—was material and utilitarian as compared with the idealism of the East, and no one can doubt that the genius of the East and that of Europe differed in kind rather than in degree. Also, unquestionably, if we examine modern conditions, we arrive at the conclusion that recent development in Asia has for the most part shown a greater tendency to imitation than to adaptation. The single exception is that of the Japanese, because, though the Japanese have adopted a great number of European inventions they have adapted them to the use of their own people."

But granting all this, Mr. CLIFFORD still thinks that Europe has conferred many inestimable gifts upon Asiatic populations which would never have proceeded from their own forms of civilization. "I quote, 'heavenly' rather more than twenty years ago, lived entirely alone in a native State, where we did not get any communication of any sort from the beginning of October until the middle of the following April, and where the native Sultan ruled under a complete feudal system, almost the exact counterpart of the feudal system of Europe, and after knowing what the life of the people was in that State after realising how complete the present state of things was, we were struck by the fact that the people were not only happy but also very intelligent."

The Rev. F. B. MEYER'S VISIT.

The Rev. F. B. Meyer, B. A. of London, after a sojourn of eight days in the colony, has left for Canton to hold for a short period meetings and services of the type now familiar to so many in Hongkong. Early next week Mr. Meyer intends to visit Amoy, from which port he will proceed northwards, making a longer or shorter stay for the purposes of his special mission at the points agreed upon before his departure from England. The reverend gentleman and Mrs. Meyer will finally return to Europe by way of Siberia.

On the eve of Mr. Meyer's departure we deem it well to place before our readers, in a few words, the design, method and results, as we approached them, of his work here.

To regard Mr. Meyer as an extremist in the usual invidious acceptance of the term would be wholly misleading. One feature of the meetings has been the thorough-going reasonableness of his spirit and tone. So far as we could judge there was no appeal to the emotional in his hearers and the line of address which we may call ad sequendum was throughout eschewed. Mr. Meyer appears to assure that truth itself is truth, best evidence and that to declare and set it forth is to be assured that it will carry conviction to heart, mind, conscience and practical life. From his point of view there is probably no call more assured than that stated above. "All that a preacher of his type is mainly concerned with is to have his own heart, mind, conscience and life in close and uninterrupted touch with forces spiritual and divine. To be himself, as he phrases it, 'a live Godward' is to be in such relations with God that his preaching must be effective and at no point fail to fulfil the Divine purpose. While this, we think, sufficiently explanatory of his method in the main it must not be forgotten that Mr. Meyer's preaching and teaching have always their aspect toward the human relations between man and man. Our visitor would be the first to disclaim the attitude of a mere moralist, for few have come here with a keener eye than he to what are known as the 'sins of society' and none have dealt with these in a manner more searching and pointed, more comprehensive or far-reaching, similarly as respects the conduct of individuals toward one another when regard is had to motive and intent to feeling and purpose. As regards the fulness and completeness of his ethical teaching, Mr. Meyer's public utterances seemed to us admirable. It has always been to the praise of such as he if they can be said to know human nature, to discern 'what is in man.' Otherwise they may 'rub the wrong when they should bring the plaster.' Probably the two elements which make strongly for success in Mr. Meyer are experience alike 'in the ways of God to men' and not less so in the ways of men to God, joined with a style of speaking fraught with personal magnetism and a power that only the intensely spiritual are endowed with, a force not analyzable by human processes or to be accounted for by human reckoning. These are the things in Mr. Meyer that render him what he is, not merely a great lecturer, speaker and church leader, but a man of true prophetic fire and apostolic zeal whose intercourse and work among us takes us back in thought and purpose to the time of the Church's glorious triumphs through those greatest among her sons whom God specially endowed and sent forth in his service."

The journals, who attend the House of Commons have reason to be gratified at the attention of the public owing to the performance of the suffragette. The Press Gallery at the House is terribly crowded on important occasions, and there are no means of extending it so that at times the work of the reporters, leaders, writers, and artists who frequent it is carried on under very difficult conditions. But seeing the empty Suffragette Gallery night after night the House Committee applied to the House of Commons to allow the suffragettes to occupy the gallery and this permission has been granted. The House of Commons is now a more comfortable place for the public.

The May number of Musical Progress, the leading Army band journal, contains a photograph of the 13th Rajputa band now stationed at Hongkong and of Mr. Tuttle, the well-known band master. There is an appreciative reference to the gratifying standard of excellence to which the band has been brought by Mr. Cooke, who is referred to as 'a pianist of some note, an accomplished linguist and an able band master who has written compositions which will come prominently before the public in the future.'

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

M. Goubiel, Lieutenant Governor of Cochinchina has arrived at Saigon and M. Ostry subsequently left for Paris.

Mrs. Hunter, widow of the late Dr. Hunter, Government bacteriologist, left the Colony with her little son on Friday.

His Excellency the Governor has gone into residence at Mountain Lodge but the visitors' book will remain at Government House.

Mr. Frank Smyth, of Messrs. Vernon and Smyth, left by the Thebes on Friday for a short visit home. The Thebes is conveying the first of the new season's teas and is expected to make a fast passage.

The Captain and officers of H.M.S. cruisers Chitose were 'at home' this afternoon from 4 till 6, and many people availed themselves of the opportunity of visiting this very spick and span warship.

The marriage arranged between Lieut. Gerald Bruce St. Pierre Bunbury, 13th Rajputa, eldest son of Major W. St. Pierre Bunbury, late R.A., and Mrs. Bunbury, Bedford, and Frances Mary Olivia, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Dixon, of Blackwell Lodge, Cumberland, will take place at Oatlands early in August.

Mr. Amos P. Wilder, American Consul-General, was entertained to dinner at the Palace Hotel, Shanghai, by Judge Thayer on June 11th. The staffs of the Consulate, the U.S. Court for China, and the Postal Agency were invited, and the event was of an extremely pleasant nature. Judge Thayer attended a warm welcome to Mr. Wilder to his post in Shanghai, and the latter suitably responded.

In Paris on March 31, Mademoiselle Moral, daughter of the Resident Superior of Tonkin, was married to Monsieur d'Arion of Shanghai. The happy couple left almost immediately to return to the Far East. It will be remembered that Mademoiselle Moral, at the invitation of His Excellency Sir Frederick Lugard, unravelled the memorial at Kowloon on May 14th, last year, erected to the memory of the French sailors who perished in the terrible typhoon of September 10, 1906.

COLIC AND DIARRHOEA CURED.

A FEEBLY man suffering from camp colic and diarrhoea, the best remedy obtainable on any day, tried 'Quickly' Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, is the best medicine in use for these ills. It always gives prompt relief even in the most severe and dangerous cases, and you can not afford to allow your home to be without it. Every box is made by all chemists and grocers.

NEWS OF THE DAY

Lieutenant Colonel Charles Edmund Grosvenor, commanding the 10th Regiment of Colonial Infantry, has died at Haiphong at the age of 50 years.

Mr. A. J. Mackie has been promoted from the position of Acting Second Interpreter at the Supreme Court to the post of First Interpreter at the Magistracy.

At St. Andrew's Church, Kowloon, tomorrow the Bishop of Victoria will preach at the morning service. The evening service will be taken by the Rev. A. B. Thornhill.

For snatching a gold car-pick from a woman in Queen's Road, a native was sentenced to two months' hard labour, six hours' stocks, and two whippings of twelve strokes each, at the Magistracy to-day.

Le Courier d'Hongkong states that the President of the Chamber of Commerce of Hankow, Mr. Veyre, has addressed a letter to the Governor-General of Indo-China asking that the question of a rapid line of navigation be established between Haiphong, Hongkong, and Shanghai be considered, so that it will be possible to travel from Haiphong to Paris in twenty-four days.

The May number of Musical Progress, the leading Army band journal, contains a photograph of the 13th Rajputa band now stationed at Hongkong and of Mr. Tuttle, the well-known band master. There is an appreciative reference to the gratifying standard of excellence to which the band has been brought by Mr. Cooke, who is referred to as 'a pianist of some note, an accomplished linguist and an able band master who has written compositions which will come prominently before the public in the future.'

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

M. Goubiel, Lieutenant Governor of Cochinchina has arrived at Saigon and M. Ostry subsequently left for Paris.

Mrs. Hunter, widow of the late Dr. Hunter, Government bacteriologist, left the Colony with her little son on Friday.

His Excellency the Governor has gone into residence at Mountain Lodge but the visitors' book will remain at Government House.

Mr. Frank Smyth, of Messrs. Vernon and Smyth, left by the Thebes on Friday for a short visit home. The Thebes is conveying the first of the new season's teas and is expected to make a fast passage.

The Captain and officers of H.M.S. cruisers Chitose were 'at home' this afternoon from 4 till 6, and many people availed themselves of the opportunity of visiting this very spick and span warship.

The marriage arranged between Lieut. Gerald Bruce St. Pierre Bunbury, 13th Rajputa, eldest son of Major W. St. Pierre Bunbury, late R.A., and Mrs. Bunbury, Bedford, and Frances Mary Olivia, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Dixon, of Blackwell Lodge, Cumberland, will take place at Oatlands early in August.

Mr. Amos P. Wilder, American Consul-General, was entertained to dinner at the Palace Hotel, Shanghai, by Judge Thayer on June 11th. The staffs of the Consulate, the U.S. Court for China, and the Postal Agency were invited, and the event was of an extremely pleasant nature. Judge Thayer attended a warm welcome to Mr. Wilder to his post in Shanghai, and the latter suitably responded.

In Paris on March 31, Mademoiselle Moral, daughter of the Resident Superior of Tonkin, was married to Monsieur d'Arion of Shanghai. The happy couple left almost immediately to return to the Far East. It will be remembered that Mademoiselle Moral, at the invitation of His Excellency Sir Frederick Lugard, unravelled the memorial at Kowloon on May 14th, last year, erected to the memory of the French sailors who perished in the terrible typhoon of September 10, 1906.

NEW TROUPE OF ENTERTAINERS.

Among the passengers who arrived by the last German mail was the celebrated family of artists, five in number, known as the Eagle Troupe. They have come to Hongkong under a contract with the "Star" cinematograph establishment in Wyndham Street, and they will make their debut to-night (Saturday). They have an admirably varied programme, their new songs and dances being a particular feature. To-night little Miss Mias and Master Sone will sing the very latest English songs.

The pictures for the coming week, too, will be specially selected and will be well worth seeing.

SANITARY BOARD.

Among the orders of the day at the meeting of the Sanitary Board on Tuesday are the following:—

Letter from Government forwarding a copy of an ordinance amending the Public Health and Buildings Ordinance 1903-1908.

Reply from Government relative to the advice of the Law Officers re exemption from the provisions of section 175 of Ordinance No. 1 of 1903.

Report of the committee relative to malaria in the village of Shangkwan and its environs.

Complaint against the Kowloon conservancy contractor.

Correspondence relative to backyards in domestic buildings.

A tremendous indictment of "The Soldier's Cigarette" appears in the current number of Nationalist Defence from the pen of Lieutenant-General Sir William Knox, in the form of an imaginary address to a battalion of the Territorial Army. Sir William points out that the Army Medical Department has embodied in its report an emphatic pronouncement against cigarette smoking, stating that the proportion of soldiers in the United Kingdom becoming inefficient owing to cardiac affections is double that in any foreign army. And as regards the effect of the practice on officers, he declares that he knows of more than one "regrettable incident" in the Boer war which was the result of loss of nerve, brought on, in his opinion, by over-indulgence. "Sir William feels so strongly on the subject that he advocates that in an officer's confidential report should be inserted the question: 'Is he an intemperate cigarette smoker?' And as for the rank and file, he quotes the words of the Report of the Army Medical Department for 1907: 'Average British recruits are of enlistment the youngest and in the poorest physical condition of those in any civilized army. Moreover, they are nearly all confirmed cigarette smokers.'"
